

GERMANY

Strengthening Democracy - Fostering a Civil Society

In a general manner, the author approaches the current panorama of civic education in Europe. He highlights the importance that civic education must have to deal with the so-called democratic fatigue that we are living nowadays. He describes the functions and tasks of the Federal Agency for Civic Education and the Network of European Citizenship Educators. Lastly, he shares some conclusions on what the future will bring for civic education.