

Elena Arbués. She has a Ph.D. in Pedagogy and a Master's degree in Marriage and Family. She has worked in different education centers as a teacher of elementary school, school counselor and family counselor. Currently she is a Professor at the University of Navarre and directs the Master's degree in Teaching. She was a postdoctoral student at Balliol College, Holywell Manor at the Oxford University. Her research is centered in civic education, the promotion of social participation and the teaching of science. She is a member of the Education, Citizenship and Character Research Group (ECCRG) of the University of Navarre.